

After being asked to be removed from their call list andf being told I was removed by a manager I recieved another call last night which the person did not identify themselves and then hung up on me. Attempted to call back at that time but office was closed to incomeing calls. Called back today but manager was too busy to deal with me.